Opportunity

NHS Business Services Authority Pensions (NHSBSA) is responsible for administering the National Health Service (NHS) pension scheme in England and Wales. It is the largest centrally administered public sector pension scheme in Europe, having 1.5 million actively contributing members and paying pension benefits to more than 870,000 pensioners every month.

The NHSBSA was challenged to meet anticipated increases in future demand for pension services while, simultaneously, delivering an improved value for money service, including a next-day processing target. Siloed working structures resulted in inefficient work management and fragmented management information, which made it difficult to support operational excellence initiatives.

“Our goal is to provide every contributing member and pensioner with an engaging and responsive service,” explains Theresa Britton, head of service — pensions, NHSBSA. “Owing to increasing member numbers and pressure to maximize efficiency, NHSBSA required a centralized solution that would provide the organization with clear visibility of work and resource position, irrespective of source and location.”

Key objectives of the back-office workforce optimization project were to:

- Deliver a solution that could be deployed rapidly, across multiple sites, and with minimal internal IT support;
- Create a centralized work distribution and planning function;
- Provide visibility of all work, irrespective of source and status;
- Identify resource capacity and skills bottlenecks across business functions to improve training planning, business flexibility, and work throughput; and
- Implement a consistent management framework to create a target-driven culture focused on continuous improvement to support existing Lean initiatives.

– Theresa Britton, Head of Service — Pensions, NHSBSA

Solution

Working in partnership with Verint, NHSBSA deployed Verint Operations Manager as a managed cloud service, which delivered secure access with minimal internal IT support. The solution provides managers with real-time access to fact-based management information. It also enables them to develop the skills to execute on future business plans.

With Verint Operations Manager, NHSBSA is able to:

- Capture, allocate, track, and manage all work, as well as provide comprehensive real-time management information in an operational dashboard;
- Simulate and model future volumes, adherence to service level agreements, and resource capacity;
- Incorporate third-party system data; and
- Deliver management information to nominated mobile devices.

Results

The result is a single, comprehensive back-office workforce management solution, which creates a centralized view of all work and resources, irrespective of source. It also supports the creation of a centralized workflow management team responsible for day-to-day work and resource planning, as well as longer-term forecasting.

An essential aspect in delivering the “complete solution” was the operations management processes development program. This blend of classroom, group, and one-to-one mentoring ensures that NHSBSA managers are equipped not only with improved management information, but also the necessary operational management best practices to make informed decisions to deliver sustainable improvements.

With Verint Operations Manager and operational management training, NHSBSA was able to impact customer service, employee efficiency, and work distribution.
